Direct Election of Senators.

Some of our reactionary brethren, journalistic and otherwise, are very much perturbed over the adoption of the seventeenth amendment to the constitution providing for the election of senators by a direct vote. These worthy view with alarm any measure that tends to take any power away from the special interests or has for its purpose bringing any branch of the government closer to the people.

One organ says that the amendment will mean the end of the long time service of such men as Cullom, Morgan, Pettus, Hoar and others who rendered good service to the country.

It must be admitted this is a little far-fetched. As a matter of fact the people are always apt to re-elect a man who does them signal and valuable service. These reactionaries do not fear the defeat of the long time valuable senators like Vest and Edwards, Pettus and Morgan, but, having the ability to decipher the handwriting on the wall, they see the finish of the Guggenheims, the Penroses, the Lorimers and other predatory gentlemen of like ilk.

The Boston Transcript is greatly alarmed lest this be the most uncertain movement in the whole political history of the country and fears that ancient system will be shattered, whereby chairmanships of important committees were given to members of a strong lever in favor of the incumbent against the new aspirant for senatorial honors. But in the future, committee positions are likely to be awarded more for merit than seniority.

The senate was at all times only an imitation of the British house of lords and its usefulness has often been seriously questioned. In a sense, the existence of the body depended on this amendment.

With the people electing their own senators, the standard of excellence in the senate will be raised and the upper house may become a useful portion of the legislative branch of government.

It is reasonable to assume that no incognito can be too dark, deep and impenetrable to suit the convenience of Mr. McManigal.

Easy Jobs
Becoming Scarce.

The announcement that hereafter holders of lucrative federal positions will be expected to do a full day's work themselves and not throw the duties and responsibilities of the office on small salaried subordinates, makes the easy jobs in the public service rather small. While this may seem somewhat less the army of place hunters, it will, if the rule is adhered to, strengthen the public service and raise the standard of excellence among the officeholders.

An easy job is not the accepted ideal position for an American citizen. To their credit most men like places that call for work, originality and initiative. Neither within the government service nor out of it, are there many places in life that are sinecures. There are some small places where small men may drone away all their lives but people who accomplish much in government service or by private endeavor have to get up and hustle.

If officeholders fully understood this, there would perhaps not be so many of them.

Now that the hunger strike has been successfully introduced in the United States the male prison population may be expected to claim equal rights.

President Taft
On the Ballot.

President Taft, now merely Professor Taft, has begun his series of law lectures at New Haven, on "Some Questions of Government." In his opening address he says that probably a majority of the people will never be given the ballot. He said that when the constitution was adopted only one person in twenty-five could vote but the right of suffrage had gradually been extended until one in six are voting now.

The professor is hardly logical. As the education and intelligence of the people increases, the right to use the ballot will increase correspondingly. When the time comes that practically the whole of our citizenship is reasonably well educated and fairly prosperous, there will be no longer any reason for a restricted ballot.

It would be better were such educators as the former president working to make the people fit to use the ballot rather than to take the ballot from the people.

But William Howard Taft always represented a class and never the whole people.

They do some queer things up in Kentucky. The state legislature has granted a small pension to former Confederate soldiers, just as the other southern states have done. But now the state government denies the constitutionality of the act on the ground that it provides for the distribution of public funds to persons who have rendered no public service. This is unquestionably the first time such a question was ever raised in the history of the world. The matter is still pending in the Kentucky courts.

A lot of busybodies in Chicago are raising a great hue and cry about sending young negroes into slavery because some charitable societies of the city have been finding places for dependent young negroes, as domestics in southern homes. The housekeeper who has to grapple with the average negro domestic is more nearly the slave than is the negro.

Dr. Lyman Abbott has been removed as vice president of the American Peace Society. It seems the good doctor wanted larger naval appropriations.

They formed a mob in Indiana to lynch a woman who killed a man. That could not happen in the South.

Having attended a Y. M. C. A. cornerstone, the secretary of state's visit to California was not in vain.

Suppose Japan does build three new ships, what of it?

Giles—Say, you didn't get your hair cut at a barber shop, did you?

Miles—Of course not. A locksmith did the job—at cut rates.

Giles—Huh! It looks more like the work of a hackman.—Newark Times.

FAMOUS ACTRESS
TURNS SUFFRAGIST

Pauline Frederick.

New York, May 8.—Pauline Frederick, the noted actress, has turned suffragist. She took the leading role in the suffragist movement last week at the Metropolitan opera house, impersonating "Woman." She had never before the pageant declared herself in favor of votes for women, but now she says she believes in votes for the women of her profession, and the men, too.

"I am always ready to do all I can for equal suffrage," said Miss Frederick, when questioned on the subject. "With us player-folk, however, the question of suffrage takes on another aspect. We are not worried about getting votes for women. We want votes for both men and women. By reason of the nature of their work, actors are practically disfranchised. It is not that their profession is still held in ill-repute, as was the case some centuries ago, but because their work seldom allows them to be in their home district on both registration and election days. I do not suppose more than 10 per cent of the eligible male theatrical people get an opportunity to vote at any election.

"Actors would make splendidly qualified electors—their wanderings give them a truly national viewpoint on national questions. A movement to permit members of traveling professions to vote at any point where they may happen to be on election day, on the presentation of properly endorsed certificates from the board of elections in their home districts, would have the unanimous support of all actors. And actors have become quite prominent in politics—May Irwin and others took the stump for Wilson last fall, you will remember, and were believed to have had a considerable influence on the results in closely contested districts."

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT.

By Roy K. Moulton.

Don't Do It.
One poor deluded mortal tried to figure out the scheme, The old scheme of existence and it was his one pet dream That some day he would solve it and that he would rise to fame; And that the countless millions would his mastery proclaim.

He tried to figure how some folks could always get along, And never get in wrong; How they could wear the finest clothes and eat the finest fare Without a cent of income of which neighbors were aware.

He couldn't dope their system out. He tried with might and main. But had to give it up at last, his efforts were in vain.

He tried to figure how it was that he looked so successful, While honest folks failed frequently and were sometimes in need. He figured on for many years, his fate is said to tell. They say that he's still figuring, but in a padded cell.

Anne says when he sent his daughter to a finishing school it was his main hope for her future. Anne Hanks has begun taking lessons on the slide trombone and practicing at home and all the neighbors have begun getting phonographs in self-defense.

Since Lew Tubbs held the office of rotary public in his village and got a taste of politics he ain't fit for work of any kind.

They say that there is nothing impossible in this world, but I would like to know how in tophet it is possible to get out of payin' a gas bill.

Ansel Bird has been working all winter making an automobile for himself and if he kin succeed in puttin' a mortgage on his remaining forty acres he may be able to buy enough gasoline to run it for a week or two.

Rev. Hudnutt says he hopes some day to get his church choir in such a frame of mind that at least two members of it will speak to each other. If he does he claims that his many years in the ministry will not be in vain.

Lem Higgins says he hopes to live long enough to get the tariff straightened out in his own mind, but he must expect to beat Methuselah's record by several years.

The mud puddle which has stood in Main street, in front of the postoffice for several years will be moved onto soaped up in 'sponges and squeezed out when a proper site for it is found. Let the improvements go on.

Every time the price of gasoline goes up Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Hanks put another mortgage on their forty acres to keep the car goin'.

He is not well versed in Greek; Plain old Yankee does he speak. And his rules of etiquette— They have not been published yet. You can always hear him chew; Drinks out of his sasser, too, And he doesn't mind a bit When you call him down for it. Takes old-fashioned remedy For what ails him. Says that he Can't see much in this "new thought." Though, of course, he ought. He's not very long on style And he wears no fine silk tie. Interest in art to him Is naught but a silly whim. He's more taken up with cooks Than with music or with books. Polish is not in his line, But I'll tell you friends of mine, When I'm lookin' for a V, Dad looks mighty good to me.

value of the other timber, for we will be clearing a way for the logging and lumber industries. In other words, we make it possible to reach timber tracts that are now and would remain inaccessible.

"And another thing," said Mr. Kauffmann, "our operations will give employment to hundreds of men who live along the rivers in getting out this timber. And then the government would lend some assistance to clearing the rivers of submerged logs and stumps when it is made known that they are to be utilized. We have, as I have stated, secured almost a quarter of a million acres of timber lands, which will supply our plant indefinitely with gum wood.

Mr. Kauffmann stated that several of the largest land owners of West Florida were co-operating with the company in promulgation of the pulp wood plant in Pensacola. There is no stock for sale, nor will there be any placed on the market.

Among those who are interested in the enterprise are J. J. McCaskill, and others of Walton county.

Mr. Kauffmann will leave tonight for New York, returning Wednesday or Thursday next with probably two or more directors of the company, who a site will be selected on which will be erected one of the greatest industries, not only in the state of Florida, but in the south.

LOGGING ASSN.
HELD MEETING

FIRST HELD SINCE ORGANIZATION EAST OF THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER—WILL BE GUESTS TODAY OF THE BAGDAD LAND AND LUMBER COMPANY.

Yesterday at noon the Southern Logging Association held its annual district meeting in club room A at the San Carlos.

The association was organized in 1910 in New Orleans, and is composed of southern, southwestern and south-eastern lumber companies. At the meeting yesterday several of the most prominent lumbermen of this section were present and a great deal of interest was manifested in the proceedings. It was the first meeting, since its organization, of the association east of the Mississippi river.

S. Rigell presided over the deliberation of the body yesterday, many matters of interest to the lumbermen being taken up for consideration. The subjects for discussion were costs and methods in the following branches:

Location of spurs. Taking up, laying steel and repairs to track. Cutting right of way and banking grounds. Grading and building bridges. Logging in hill and country compared, also best equipment for each territory. Feed, which is a very expensive item when stock are used for skidding. Cutting logs. Hauling or skidding to track. Cost of loading logs on cars. Cost of main line to pond. Fuel for locomotives.

After an interchange of ideas on the cost and methods of handling timber, the lumbermen adjourned, to meet next September in New Orleans. They also passed a resolution of thanks for the courtesies extended by Manager George Hervey of the San Carlos.

The members present will spend today as the guests of Mr. Rigell, at Bagdad. A trip of twenty miles will be taken to one of the log camps where a barbecue will be served, after which several demonstrations will be made in the latest methods of logging.

During the afternoon a trip will be made to the Bagdad Land and Lumber Company have extensive naval stores interests. The party will be composed of: W. A. Finlay, Jr., of the McMillan Mill Co., Pine Barren; O. F. Landrum, of the Vredenburg Saw Mill Co., Vredenburg; C. C. Curry, of the Vredenburg Co.; L. J. Poshee, of the McGowan & Foshee Lumber Co., of Falco, Ala.; W. D. Durant, of W. T. Smith & Sons Timber Co., of Holt, Fla.; George W. Ward and R. E. McCaskill, of Vredenburg; C. E. Stewart, Florida; Sam Mill Co., of Vredenburg; C. W. Evans and J. S. Betts, of Greenville, and James Boyd, editor of the Lumber Trade Journal, of New Orleans.

The party is expected to return to Pensacola tonight or early in the morning. The following are the officers of the association.

President—J. B. Baker, Hule, Dodge Lumber Company, Dodge, La.

First Vice-President—C. P. Myer, Kirby Lumber Company, Silsbee, Tex.

He removes WARTS and MOLES from any part of the body by a wonderful and painless method that leaves no scar.

Why You Should Come

Many have asked Dr. Farrow, how it is that he can cure chronic diseases that the general practitioner can do nothing with. The general answer is: Dr. Farrow has devoted his life to the specialty of Chronic Disease. He devotes all of his time to his given specialty. He does nothing but office work. Instead of having one office with a practice limited to a radius of a few miles, he has a number of offices, and his practice covers hundreds of miles. He advertises for the difficult and baffling cases that have been seeking relief sometimes for years, many of which come to him and find health and happiness, through the aid of his diagnostic methods and deep acting blood remedies. His advice is always welcome to you. YOU PLACE YOURSELF UNDER NO OBLIGATION WHEN YOU CALL. Come at once and consult the doctor—next time may be too late.

Many of you who have been taking medicine and so called treatments for months will be absolutely cured in a few weeks. Very chronic cases will require somewhat longer time, but it will make no difference; you will be treated, until you can say: "I AM CURED."

Chronic Stomach Trouble

You are irritable in disposition—easily angered. You have plenty of ideas, but never carry any of them out. You are always tired. You have to force yourself to accomplish anything. You become blue and despondent and have many other symptoms which you know only too well. These are the mental symptoms of a deranged stomach. Other symptoms are: Bloating, Belching of gas, sour or greasy matter from the stomach, Pain, Distress, Weakness, Palpitation of the heart, Constipation or Diarrhoea, Unhealthy complexion, Changeable appetite, and Coated tongue. All these symptoms point to a deranged digestion. If you have any of these symptoms, lose no time. Dr. W. R. Farrow's deep-acting remedies will cure you, no matter how many doctors have failed. His specialty is the curing of deep, aggravated chronic diseases.

Catarrh

Are your lungs or bronchial tubes weak? Do you cough and expectorate diseased mucus? Does your nose stop up? Is your breath offensive? Have you a bad taste in your mouth? Have you a sore throat? Do you have trouble with shortness of breath and weak spells? Do you have throat trouble with hawking and clearing of your throat? Do you have dripping of sticking mucus from the back part of your nose into your throat? Call and have the doctor examine you. There is no need for you to have Catarrh. It often leads to that dreaded disease that is killing thousands of our best people—Consumption. Dr. Farrow's treatment can be used in your home daily. No need of expensive office treatments.

Men

Are you suffering from early abuse, lost vital power, losses and drains, palpitation of the heart, restless nights, bad dreams, loss of ambition and mental activity, nervousness, irritable temper, bad blood diseases which have neglected or mistreated? No matter how chronic your trouble may be or how many have treated you, consult the master specialist, Dr. W. R. Farrow. He cures 99 per cent. of all these cases that appeal to him. His medicines are quick acting and curative. Don't let false modesty keep you away. These diseases are just as legitimate a branch of medicine as any disease of the stomach, etc. Be a man amongst men before it is too late.

Women

Are you suffering from pain in the back of your neck, on top of your head and in the small of your back? Do you have pain down in front of your thighs? Congestion of Ovaries? Do you have leucorrhoea, painful menstruation, too profuse menstruation or irregular menstruation? Do you have sediment in your urine? Do you have bearing down and hot flashes? Are you dizzy and nervous? Are you always tired and weak? Do you have numb spells? Many women have been saved from the operating table by Dr. W. R. Farrow's deep-acting medicines.
